TEXT BOOKS.

CLASSICAL COURSE.

LATIN :—Arnold's 1st and 2d Book; Andrews and Stoddard's Grammar; Andrews' Reader, Sallust and Exercises; Gould's or Moore's Virgil; Johnson's Cicero: Lincoln's Livy; Cicero De Officiis, De Senectute, and De Amicitia; Leverett's and Andrews' Lexicon.

GREEK :—Sophocles' Grammar and Lessons; Colton's Reader; Greek Testament; Owen's Anabasis and Odyssey; and Liddell and Scott's Lexicon.

FRENCH :—Pinney's Grammar; Guillaume Tell, Telemachus, Corinne, and Surenne's French Dictionary.

ENGLISH COURSE.

MATHEMATICS :—Colburn's Intellectual Arithmetic, Greenleaf's Introduction and National Arithmetic, Day's Algebra, Trigonometry and Mensuration, Flint's Surveying, Playfair's Euclid, Olmsted's School Philosophy, Silliman's Chemistry, Olmsted's Astronomy.

NATURAL SCIENCES :—Mitchell's Geography, Wood's Botany and First Lessons, Cutter's or Jarvis' Physiology, Hitchcock's Geology, Chamber's Zoology.

HISTORY :—Frost's History of the United States, Goldsmith's Greece and Rome, Pinnock's Goldsmith's England, Worcester's Universal History.

English Grammar, &c.:—Quackenbos' First Lessons in English Composition, Well's Grammar, Newman's Rhetoric, Analysis of Cowper's Task, and of Milton's Paradise Lost.

Miscellaneous:—Upham's Intellectual Philosophy, Wayland's Moral Science, Harris' Book-Keeping.

Reading and Spelling, the writing of Compositions, Declamations, and Rehearsals, are attended to by all, without further text books than those mentioned above, except that Porter's Rhetorical Reader and Webster's Dictionary are often referred to or regularly used.

TERMS AND VACATIONS.

The Academical Year is divided into four terms, of eleven weeks each. These commence respectively on the first Wednesdays of September, December, March, and June, and are each succeeded by a vacation of two weeks.

CHARGES FOR TUITION

Are as follows:—In Common English Branches, $3,00. In Higher English Branches, and in Latin and Greek, $3,50.—History of England, Algebra, Geometry, Moral, Intellectual, and Natural Philosophy; Rhetoric, Logic, Botany, Physiology, and Elocution, are considered as Higher English Branches. All others taught in the Institution are ranked as common branches.—An extra charge of $1,00 is made for instruction in French.

These charges are payable in advance; and no deduction is ever made, except in case of sickness for several successive weeks.

APPARATUS, MAPS AND PLATES.

Ample means of illustration are provided, to accompany the instruction in Natural Philosophy, Geography and Physiology. A superior set of Philosophical Apparatus, Maps and Plates, belong to the Institution, and are used in the daily recitations in those branches which they were designed to illustrate.

ARRANGEMENTS FOR RECITATION AND STUDY.

To avoid the evils necessarily attendant upon the hearing of recitations in rooms occupied by pupils professedly engaged in study, the recitations are heard in separate apartments; and the room devoted to study, in charge of a competent person, is thus entirely free from disturbance during study hours.

MORAL EDUCATION.

It is the aim of the Principal to lead the pupils to act constantly in view of the moral relations which they sustain to himself, and to one another; and so to educate the conscience, that appeals to it, whenever necessary for reproof or correction, shall not fail of their designed effect.

Oral Biblical instruction is given daily in connection with the passage read (in course) in the morning; and the instruction imparted at each exercise, together with an account of the passage read, is required of all at the succeeding exercise.

Parents or Guardians sending children from abroad, whose habits of punctuality, and good moral character are not fully established, are requested to place them under the care of some responsible person, the Principal or some one else, who may promptly correct any deficiency, or report the same to the parents or guardians.

Attendance at church on the Sabbath is required by a standing rule of the Institution.

LOCATION.

The Academy is situated in Hadley, Mass., on the stage road from Northampton to Amherst, two miles from the former, and four from the latter. Being thus near the Connecticut River Rail Road, it is very accessible, while the quiet of the town is peculiarly favorable for the purposes of the student. The healthy moral tone of the community, and intelligent character of the society, are still further considerations, which, added to the healthfulness of the climate, and beauty of the scenery, make the situation peculiarly attractive to those who may seek a place of safety and of promise for the education of their children.
